BOYS' FLAG SALUTE SPOILED BY PLOTTER

While Glen Ridge, N. J., is almost pursting with patriotism, Nathan Price, the boy bugler of the Glen Ridge Home Defence Battalion and trumpeter for the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and Camp Fire Girls as well, is on the verge of explod-

Girls as well, is on the verge of exploding with rage, chegrin or mortification, he doesn't know which.

On Tuesday all Glen Ridge turned out to participate in the big patriotic meeting which was to conclude with a flagraining at the Community Garden. Not only all the school boys and girls were there, but all the leading citizens and town officials as well. The Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and Camp Fire Girls were drawn up in a hollow square, and in the centre stood young Nathan with his shining bugie poised for the long, sweet blast that was to float out on the air just as Old Giory rippled to the breeze. The signal was given, the flag was shot up to the towering mast and the master of ceremonies nodded to Nathan to sound his "Call to the Colors." Nathan is only 12 years old, but he squared his shoulders and with bugle to mouth blew as he never blew before. His cheeks puffed out to the size of a toy balloon. If his face became as red as a turkey cock's and his eyes bulged. But not a sound came from the obstinate bugle. Again he tried and then the pesky horn emitted a little squawk that sounded like the first crow of an eight weeks old rooster.

Civilian Investigation Board Reports Solace Charges Unfounded.

OVERLOADING ADMITTED

Dr. Abraham Flexner, Nathan Straus and Dr. Welch Made Inquiry.

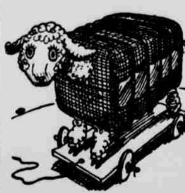

WASHINGTON, June 6 .- The protest or round robin" signed by thirty patients aboard the navy hospital ship Solace charging mistreatment by the medica officers, "rests on gossip and hearsay," secording to the report of the civilian dmmission sent to the fleet by Secretary Daniels to investigate conditions in any way it saw fit. After interviewing more than 100 mer who were aboard the ship during the period covered by the complaint the com-mission, composed of Dr. William H. Weich, Johns Hopkins University, and Dr. Abraham Flexner and Nathan Straus The crowd was amazed. Nathan raged. The ceremonies were about over and every eye was focused on the little trumpeter. He was seen to turn up his bugle and peer into its curing, mute bell. Then the crowd let out a whoop as Nathan was seen to pick out wadding which some miscreant had stuffed into the instrument. The Boy Scouts are now seeking the German piotter who spilled the beans down Nathan's horn.

Dr. Abraham Flexner and Nathan Straus of New York, reported that "the general testimony is to the effect that they received what they wanted, needed and asked for. There was, in our judgment, on lack of kindness and intelligent care on the part of Dr. Blackwood (commanding the Solace) and his assistants. They were dealing throughout the month of May with an unprecedented emergency, and in handling it they acquitted themselves admirably. The report asserted that the medical have no other base than malice and falsehood."

The commissioners reported that patients and convalescents on the Solace and in land hospitals were questioned in the absence of officers, and that the witnesses spoke without reserve and with "no evidence whatsoever of fear or restraint." It was learned that during May the fleet was receiving new men at a rate of 700 a day, with measles, mumps, scarlet fever and cerebro-meningitis unusually prevalent in communities from which the recruits were drawn. As a result the Solace, with a normal capacity for thirty infectious cases, at one time was forced to care for 101.

Charges that proper precautions were not taken to prevent the apread of discesses, the report declares, are unanswerably denied by the fact that there was virtually no cross-infection either on the
